The deodorant that is changing a nation's habits!

AUGUST 19, 1951

One of many picturesque old houses along King's Highway attracts an artist.

artists and photographers. Consider Middletown's attractions: Marlpit Hall, built in 1684 and now a museum; King's Highway, laid out in 1719 on an old Indian trail, beside which are now most of the village's old homes; Christ Church, said to be partially supported by the income from money left by William Leeds, pirate aide to Captain Kidd, and First Baptist Church, on the site where the state's first Baptist congregation was organized in 1668.

MUCH more of Monmouth's scenic delights can be enjoyed by turning south on Church street, next to Christ Church. This road, through Lincroft to Tinton Falls, abounds in weeping willows, gently coursing streams, rolling farmlands where beef cattle graze and one of the state's finest concentrations of tall locust trees. Lincroft, incidentally, is the scene of the annual rally of Scottish clans.

Beyond Lincroft the road crosses the restricted tracks of the Earle Naval Ammunition Depot. Turn right at the intersection beyond the tracks to Scobeyville, the center of some of Monmouth's splendid horse-breeding farms. Keep right in Scobeyville (on the road beside the yellow-trimmed farm). Pass through the Phalanx crossroad and then turn right on the dirt road a half-mile beyond. This winds out to a left turn on the concrete road to Holmdel, grape-raising center. In Holmdel, turn right at the blinker, then ignore roads leading left until the grassy triangle intersection is reached at Crawford's Corner, then bear left to Hazlet.
